

Adult Living Situations: National Resources

Autism Speaks

Ph (212) 252-8584
1 East 33rd Street, 4th Floor
New York, NY 10016
www.autismspeaks.org

The Autism Speaks organization is dedicated to advocate for all individuals diagnosed with ASD with a focus on increased awareness and advocacy.

Easter Seals

Ph (312) 726-6200
233 South Wacker Drive, Suite 2400
Chicago, IL 60606
www.easterseals.com

Easter Seals is a primary provider of autism services supporting the individuals with autism along with their families. Easter Seals strives to meet the service needs of the autism population through a variety of intervention as listed on their website.

Jay Nolan Community Service

Ph (818) 361-6400
15501 San Fernando Mission Blvd., Suite 200
Mission Hills, CA 91346
www.jaynolan.org

The Jay Nolan Community Service is a non-profit organization that meets individual needs of those with autism/developmental disabilities through community support.

Autism Services Association

Ph (781) 237-0272
47 Walnut Street
Wellesley Hills, MA 02481
www.autismservicesassociation.org

The Autism Services Association is a non-profit human service agency which provides community employment services, supported employment, and clinical supports to young adults and adults with autism and other challenging developmental disabilities.

Autism Society

Ph(301) 657-0881
4340 East-West Hwy, Suite 350
Bethesda, Maryland 20814
www.autism-society.org

The Autism Society is the number one grassroots organization in the country that provides the latest information on awareness, services, education, and research.

Agricultural Communities for Adults with Autism

<http://www.ac-aa.org>

Agricultural communities are an option for autistic adults who prefer the choice of a non-traditional setting that encompasses a variety of opportunities from employment to housing. The website offers four partners within the New England area where individual can access an agricultural model of living.